Biography

Bill Hendricks is the Chief Financial Office at HBS. He is a seasoned senior finance and operations executive with a wealth of domestic and international experience in financial and accounting management and business control. He has established himself as an operationally focused and strategic partner, providing valuable advisory services to CEOs, Private Equity firms, Corporate Boards, and management teams across diverse industries.

Experience

Prior to joining HBS, Bill worked as an independent consultant and provided interim CFO and financial consulting services to various clients and industries. In this capacity, Bill had undertaken short and long-term project and consulting engagements, specializing in financial and accounting operations, operations management, business processes, merger and acquisition due diligence, and post-merger business integration.

Bill has additionally served as a CFO and held other senior financial roles for several companies ranging from midsize companies to multi-billion dollar enterprises across multiple industries.
