Biography

Cameron McCormack is an associate in our Birmingham office, where he practices in general liability, premises liability, products liability, and transportation matters.

Cameron is a driven legal professional with hands-on experience serving as a summer associate across multiple prominent Alabama law firms. Through this experience, he has developed skills managing various civil matters, including those involving the Alabama Medical Liability Act and class action matters.

Cameron earned his Juris Doctor from Samford University, where he was a senior associate editor for the American Journal of Trial Advocacy, the nation's oldest law review dedicated to trial advocacy. He received his Bachelor of Science in Aviation Management from Auburn University.
