Biography

Candace Attaway is the Attorney Recruiter at Hall Booth Smith, P.C. She leads the firm's attorney recruiting initiatives, working closely with firm leadership, practice group leaders, and the recruiting team to hire partners, lateral, summer, and entry-level associates, who align with the firm's culture and strategic goals. Candace develops and executes strategic recruiting plans, and builds relationships with law schools, legal organizations, and attorney networks.

Candace brings more than a decade of experience in the legal industry. Her expertise in attorney recruiting is grounded in prior roles at law firms and legal recruiting agencies. Her extensive background in the legal field, business development, and client and talent relationship management shapes her strategic approach to the firm's recruitment efforts.

Candace attended the Charleston School of Law and holds a B.A. in Political Science, with a minor in Anthropology, from The University of Vermont.
