Biography

Chris Watkins is a Partner in our Alpharetta office, and he has extensive experience as a litigator for construction, insurance coverage, transportation, and general liability matters.

Chris has represented contractors, subcontractors, and insurers in a wide range of disputes including construction defect, architectural and engineering errors and omissions, and insurance coverage claims. He has also handled many liability evaluations, damage estimates, and coverage assessments for claims.

Chris's transportation and general liability experience includes the representation of commercial drivers, homeowners, and small business owners in suits brought against them. On behalf of his clients he has successfully litigated car wreck, premises liability, dog bite, and many other types of cases.

Prior to joining Hall Booth Smith, Chris was an attorney at a boutique litigation firm in the Atlanta area, where he litigated wrongful death and catastrophic injury claims and served as lead counsel in multiple cases. His experience gives Chris a thorough understanding and appreciation for the many facets of personal injury litigation.
