Biography

An associate in the Atlanta office of Hall Booth Smith, Claire Adcox focuses her practice on medical malpractice and general liability matters.

Previously a summer associate at Hall Booth Smith, she gained experience conducting legal research and drafting memoranda across various litigation groups. She also assisted attorneys with deposition and trial preparation, including drafting direct and cross-examination questions, and prepared a Motion for Summary Judgment in a construction litigation case that was granted.

Claire also clerked with a criminal defense firm, where she supported attorneys from initial client meetings and discovery through a felony murder trial.

Claire earned her J.D., magna cum laude, from Georgia State University College of Law, where she served as president of the Moot Court Board. As a member of moot court, she coached the Chicago Bar Association competition team and competed in the Seventeenth Annual Emory Civil Rights and Liberties Moot Court Competition, where she was a semi-finalist and recipient of a Top 10 Brief Award. She also received CALI Awards for earning the
