Biography

Rebekah Maddox Ditto is an Associate in the Tifton office whose practice focuses on government liability, general liability, business development, and planning. She is known for her strategic, solutions-focused mindset and her ability to bring direction to even the most complex legal or operational challenges.

Rebekah has successfully argued before both the Georgia Supreme Court and the Georgia Court of Appeals. She advises numerous South Georgia counties on matters involving open government, employment and personnel issues, contracts, ordinances, and statutory compliance. Her prior experience as Acting District Attorney and as a Special Assistant United States Attorney gives her a deep, practical understanding of governmental operations and high-stakes decision-making.

More +

Before joining Hall Booth Smith, Rebekah held several leadership roles within the Alapaha Judicial Circuit District Attorney's Office, including Acting District Attorney, Chief Assistant District Attorney, and Assistant District Attorney. She also served as a Special Assistant United States Attorney for the Middle District of Georgia
