Biography

Tanner Ochs Sandor is an Associate in the Denver office of Hall Booth Smith, where he focuses his practice on construction defect, medical malpractice and products liability matters.

His experience includes matters involving employment claims, contractual and commercial disputes, franchise agreements, business torts, and other complex civil litigation. Tanner has also worked on arbitration matters involving employment, wage, fraud, and contractual claims, as well as appellate issues arising from commercial litigation.

Before beginning his legal career, Tanner worked in the financial services industry, where he supported global financial institutions in anti-money laundering, fraud detection, compliance, and risk analysis. He also conducted research on international anti-corruption law and enforcement frameworks, experience that provided him with an understanding of regulatory and compliance considerations affecting businesses.

Tanner earned his Juris Doctor from American University Washington College of Law, where he was the business and marketing editor of the American University Business Law Review
