Biography

Theodore "Chase" Johnson is an associate in our Atlanta office, focusing on aging services, batch claims and class action, and medical malpractice matters.

Prior to joining HBS, Chase was an associate with a complex litigation and insurance coverage firm. There, he was responsible for managing transportation matters and assisting in general liability matters. He handled multiple cases through settlement, including independent mediation. He also worked as a corporate governance intern for Georgia Pacific LLC, where he analyzed and collaborated with outside general counsel on historical corporate contracts utilized in mergers and acquisitions. While in law school, Chase gained experience in health care matters working with Atlanta Legal Aide, specifically with the Olmstead Disability Rights Clinic.

Chase earned his Juris Doctor from Georgia State University. While at Georgia State, he acted as a student editor for the Journal of Legal Medicine, held the position of 2L President of the Student Health Law Association, and was the graduate research assistant for Dean Leslie Wolf. He earned his Bachelor of Arts in Political
