meetings and public records laws, employment laws, public finance, real estate, and state and federal anti-discrimination laws. Brent has also represented governmental entities in defense of claims alleging constitutional deprivations brought under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 on many occasions.

Brent received his Georgia P.O.S.T. certification as a peace officer in 1991 with honors. He worked as a deputy sheriff for numerous years prior to attending law school and he has a working knowledge of law enforcement practices and procedures. Brent serves as a legal advisor to the National Sheriff's Association, he is a member of the Georgia Sheriff's Association's attorney referral network representing Region 8, and he is a sworn officer for several sheriff's offices. He has published many national articles in the areas of governmental liability.

Labor & Employment

Brent is committed to helping employers avoid, resolve, and prevail in employment disputes involving the full range of employment and labor issues. This includes litigation in state and federal courts and the representation of employers before administrative agencies over claims including discrimination, harassment, retaliation, accommodation, and state torts such as negligent supervision and hiring, intentional and negligent infliction of emotional distress, defamation, invasion of privacy, and wrongful discharge allegations.

Brent represents local businesses, industry, and governmental entities in a wide variety of employment related matters including policy and procedure implementation and revision, issues concerning state and federal anti-discrimination laws, and other employment issues. He also regularly represents employers with matters involving the EEOC.

Medical Malpractice

Brent has represented physicians, nurses, other medical providers, and hospitals for most of his legal career. He has defended many forms of medical negligence cases in addition to representing individual physicians before the State Composite Board of Medical Examiners.

Real Estate

Brent represents commercial lenders, public and private entities, and individuals in a wide variety of real estate transactions.

Transportation

Brent represents independently owned trucking companies and handles the defense of trucking litigation cases for insurance carriers and their insureds. As a deputy sheriff, he is very familiar with the process of accident investigation as well as state and federal trucking laws applicable to the trucking industry.

He has law enforcement contacts statewide, which becomes a useful tool while handling trucking claims. He has depth and experience overseeing catastrophic and rapid response investigations, and has handled many claims involving allegations of violations of the rules of the road (Title 40), driver-fatigue, negligent entrustment, and training issues, to name a few. He also has knowledge of the cares and concerns of insurers and carriers within the industry.
