Overview

The attorneys at Hall Booth Smith have the skill and experience to handle business disputes of all sizes and nature. From complex contract litigation with another business entity to internal governance matters involving officer and director duties and shareholder disputes, we work with our clients to help them achieve their strategic objectives.

We recognize that our clients' time is best spent in board rooms and conference rooms rather than in the court room. We are prepared to handle complex business and commercial disputes before federal and state courts and administrative agencies, as well as alternative dispute venues such as arbitration and mediation.

About Our Practice

Our Business Litigation practice group is focused on getting your legal disputes resolved in an effective, efficient, and economical manner. Over the past several decades, the attorneys at HBS have served as counselors, advisors, and advocates for businesses locally and internationally. We pride ourselves for not only our legal experience but also our business acumen.

We bring an end-in-mind philosophy to our practice by partnering
