

PROFESSIONAL MALPRACTICE & ETHICS

HBS protects the rights and interests of attorneys, engineers, accountants, and other professionals in all circumstances when their business or livelihood is threatened.

OVERVIEW | AREAS

Overview

Clients hire professionals including lawyers, accountants, architects, and engineers with a certain level of confidence in their abilities and credentials — an expectation of professionalism and experience. When results do not match client expectations, regardless of the circumstances, the response can be to blame the professional and sue.

Included within the skill set of our Professional Negligence practice group is the defense of claims brought against directors and officers as well as other professionals for their errors and omissions and alleged breaches of the standard of care and breach of fiduciary duties owed. Our experience ranges from defending claims of liability, disputes over credentialing, and defending professionals in disciplinary matters.

It is our job to protect and defend the professional clients and fiduciaries we serve, helping them manage the risks inherent to their practice, and both advising and representing them if the need arises. We serve a wide variety of clients in all areas including legal, accounting, and design professionals. From publicly held firms to small partnerships and sole proprietorships, we have the specialized experience and expertise to help our clients avoid, manage, and survive litigation.
