Every construction project presents potential risk exposure from compliance with rules and regulations to issues related to insurance coverage, liability for failures, damage, and injury. HBS provides solutions for all your construction-related needs.

Our attorneys have significant experience with successfully navigating industry issues from project design to acceptance. We represent a vast range of industry clients including developers, builders, contractors, transportation providers, insurance carries, and government agencies with all related issues. HBS' Construction Counsel also provides tailored representation for engineers, architects, and other design professionals in a variety of matters from design through the construction process.

Whether it is litigation in state and federal courts, panel arbitrations, mediations, trial, contract negotiation and drafting, transactional work, claims for delay or extra work, defense for property damage and personal injury, or risk management, our broad experience in the field allows us to anticipate, advise, and assist with issues encountered before, during, and after project completion.

Our Services

Our attorneys have assisted clients through a wide variety of issues, and our effectiveness in the area of construction law is demonstrated in our handling of cases representing individuals, corporations, and government entities. We represent clients with all their legal needs, including:
